Stop Being a Target for Money-Hungry Lawyers

Tom Stanton thought he had it all - a beautiful home for his family, the car he had always wanted, a growing list of investments, his children in excellent schools and dream vacations with his wife. BUT all that changed when he was served with process naming him as a defendant in a huge lawsuit. It did not matter that he was convinced he had done nothing wrong. He lost everything he had and still owes his attorney for all the legal costs.

ASSET AND LIABILITY PROTECTION

Under the law, a Nevada company is an “artificial person,” completely separate from the people who own and operate it. This is different from an individual or sole proprietorship where the owner bears the full and complete financial responsibility for his or her actions.

Because it is an independent entity, a Nevada company’s debts and taxes are separate from those of its owners.

Therefore, Nevada provides an individual in business, whether salaried or on commission, with the greatest personal liability protection.

Nevada is the only state that does not share confidential information about its corporations and limited partnerships with the IRS. In 2001, the IRS formally requested such an exchange program and the Nevada Governor turned the IRS down flat!

Case Story #1: Safeguarding your business and building personal protection

After several years and following many construction defect lawsuits, construction companies found that it was getting too expensive to carry liability insurance for themselves and their projects. Eventually, the owners made a decision to stop carrying liability insurance coverage altogether. Without insurance coverage the owners realized that they were exposed to all forms of liability lawsuits. The only alternative was asset protection for the company and themselves as the best alternative to insurance coverage.

First, the company’s operations had to be restructured so that any liability arising from a building project could not exceed the amount of the operating company’s assets, if any. It was further decided that a separate legal operating entity would be established for each construction project.

In addition, they created a separate Limited Liability Company (LLC) to own their company equipment and did a “tax free” lease-back to the operating company. They were able to accomplish this by having a CPA do a Section 355 tax-free spin-off.

In order to further insulate each project they had separate entities own the real estate and do the development work. Each entity was managed by a Nevada Corporation with special “gross negligence” provisions and special asset protection enhancements to protect them from creditors.

Finally, they created an additional layer of legal entities to further insulate themselves as owners from the liabilities of the business by protecting their home, personal property, real estate, and investments.

Their first test came several months later and this protective structuring worked as planned. The plaintiffs, upon seeing the level of protection they were faced with, dropped what could have been a class action lawsuit and accepted a surprisingly low settlement offer.

The best asset protection is to incorporate...the best place to incorporate is in tax-free Nevada

Who Should Have a Bridgeway Investment Protection Plan™?

The obvious answer is anyone whose combined Business and Personal taxes are cutting deeply into their income. If you look at your money that is going to the government and think, "I could do so much more with that than they will," you need a Nevada corporation. As the diagram below illustrates, Shareholders are protected under a Nevada Management Corporation and real estate is protected in an effectively structured Real Estate LLC.

You can set up Land Trusts to separate real estate using a Nevada Real Estate LLC. In addition, protect real estate and other assets from liability using protective liens.
